This undershirt opens in the back, and is double both front and back (the dotted line in the cuts showing the portions made double), thus bringing the protection exactly where it is most needed, and affording safety from all pulmonary complaints incident to sudden hanges of weather, etc. Experienced physicians claim that in our changeable climate an un dershirt that is heavy enough to protect the lungs is too heavy and too heating over the abdomen, caused by numerous folds being tucked into the drawers. The CHEST SHIELD overcomes all this by having the lower part medium weight, the upper part double, thus secur ing an even temperature all over the body. The New Secretary of the Treasury-Ris Plans Outlined. NEW YORK, November 24th.—The Sun's Washington dispatch says: Friends of Secretary Folger announce that his management retary Folger announce that his management of the Treasury Department will be bold, even to aggressiveness. They say that the new Secretary does not believe in the policy of locking up the enormous surplus which the Government is receiving day by day, and that he will put it all out. The amount of money at the command of the Secretary of the Cartery the Treasury, which can be used for the purpose of redeeming public debts, is very large, and if Folger is to do as his friends say he intends to do, the country may look for a very important reduction of the debt within a short time. From thirty to fifty millions of dollars could be used at the present time for this purpose without eximplication. for this purpose without crippling the Treasury, so strong has it been made by its enor-

CHICAGO, November 24th .- The Times' New York special says: A commotion was created in the Custom-house to-day by private advices from Washington that John R. Lydecker, formerly one of the Deputy Col-lectors here, is to succeed Mr. French as As-sistant Treasurer. When Arthur became Collector, Lydecker linked his political fortunes with his, and became a warm advocate of Senator Conkling at the political Conventions. This brought down upon him the ire of Secretary Sherman, and, under the inspection of the advocates of the civil service reform movement, charges were preferred against Lydecker of a character reflecting upon the disinterestedness of his integrity as a public officer. The result was his removal, as he and his friends allege, simply to make place for a partisan of the other faction. Arthur, as Collector, asserted his influence to the utmost to save his deputy's official head, but not only did not succeed, but he himself met a similar fate only a few months afterward. Now, with Arthur as President and Lydecker in the Treasury Department, the whirliging of time is bringing around its revenges. It is said here that the President has never conceded for a moment that his removal and the removal of his personal and political friends, like Lydecker, from the Custom-house was anything but an unjust partisan persecution, and hence, in justice to himself and to them, he conceives that the stigma which was thus urjustly placed upon them should be re-moved. This is said to be the real meaning of Lydecker's appointment, and this is the meaning also of the commotion which the news is naturally occasioning. The question is, "Whose turn next?" Or, to put it in another shape, "If everybody that was turned out of the Custom-house with Mr. Arthur must be provided with a place now, what is to become of the 'ins?' Senator Logan and Guitean.

To get rid of him, I said I would. The next day he called again, and after letting me know what a great and important man he was, asked me what I thought of his speech. I replied that I had not had time to read it. This put him in a rage, and at the same time opened my eyes to the fact that I was dealing with a on file at the State Department, asking for the position of Consul-General at Paris. He said he had shown it to Secretary Elaine, and Blaine had promised to give him the place if I would sign the application. I refused to sign it, on the ground that I knew nothing at all about the man. This threw Goiteau into a rage again. He drew himself up in an oratorical flourish, and told me he was Charles Guiteau, lawyer and politician, an intimate friend of all the prominent men in he Republican party, and for me not to snow him was to argue myself unknowr. He got so abusive that I finally ordered him

NEW YORK, November 24th.—The Spirit of the Times says: Early as it is to begin to discuss the prospects, those of Balch's doublemous team, Mill Boy and Bendine, and Baich himself is liable to find a mate for Wedgewood that will form a team not to be sneezed at in the race. It cannot be that with such teams as are owned by William H. Vanderbilt, Frank Work, T. C. Eastman, S. Foster Dewey, Ed. Ferrell and others in this city, that New York will be left unrepresented by some formidable candidate for the grand prize. We hear that John Barry would like to get a mate for his crack trotter, Steve Maxwell, with a view to trotting in the Boston race. John Turner is working Trinket and Charley Chaplin together. H. V. Bemis, of Chicago, proposes to hook up Piedmont and Silverton, and take a chance. W. J. Gordon, of Cieveland, if he can find a mate for his new acquisition, William H., would be likely to be among the foremest, for William H. is a trotter of trotters. Orrin Hickok has gone to California, but will soon return, and if he could only find one gaited to suit Santa Claus, all the talent would be obliged to look out for him. We can think of any number of very fast pairs that are liable to be put together for the purpose of this race, and the beauty of it is that few of the teams will have a living ourpose of this race, and the beauty of it is that few of the teams will have a living chance for victory. Previous records are bound to be wiped out if the day and the track are good.

An Experience with Train Robbers. KANSAS CITY, November 24th.—Two gen-lemen, who arrived on the Santa Fe train this morning, relate an experience with train robbers near Spearville on Tuesday night. They left Pueblo on Tuesday afternoon, and Marriage of a Couple of Henry Ward

They left Pueblo on Tuesday afternoon, and when near Spearville a train man passed through the cars warning the passengers that robbers were on the train, and advising them to hide their valuables. A scene of confusion and terror ensued, women screaming and hysterical, while everybody frantically tried to hide their possessions in every conceivable place. It seemed that five suspicious characters boarded the train at the station before Screarville and then the cious characters boarded the train at the station before Spearville, and then the train men discovered them, armed themselves, warned the passengers, and prepared to defeat their purpose, which they were satisfied was robbery. At Spearville a wrecking train stood en the side-track, and the hands were summoned to aid in capturing the robbers; but the wily fellows, five in number, skipped out from one side of the car while the reinforcements boarded it from the other. A chase was given, but they escaped in the darkness. The five men were disguised with mufflers, slouch hats, etc., and all were heavily armed. Thanksgiving Day East of the Rockies. COLUMBUS (O.), November 24th.—Thanksgiving Day was observed here generally by an entire suspension of business, by services in most of the churches, and all of the State

A Thieving Conspiracy. PHILADELPHIA, November 24th.—The ury, so strong has it been made by its enormous receipts. The same persons say that Secretary Folger will not call for bonde, but will go into the market and buy them. NEW YORK, November 24th.—In the cushion carrom billiard tournament to night, Wallace in 63 innings defeated Heiser, who made 159 points. Slosson, in a game with Sexton, played brilliantly, and won in the 39th inning. The game between Daly and Morris was uninteresting, the only incident being in the 42d inning, when Morris cut his ball from the table, and it being clipped, a new set was called for. He finally won the game. The Schaefer-Slossen game was finished in 50 innings, the latter winning, and the former making but 99 points. In 61 innings Dion defeated Sexton, who made 139. Novelty Works Burned. SWEDISH SPIRIT.

The following story is told as an instance A Russian man-of-war was seen passing ald, a deserting seaman from the ship Harry the fort of Waxholm en route for Stocknolm without having given the customary salute. The orders of the fort commandant were distinct that in a case like this two warnings were to be given. The first, that of firing a ball in the rear of the vessel. If this was unheeded, another was to be sent in advance of its bow. In case both warnings were disregarded, a ball was to be sent into the most vulnerable part of the ship. In the present instance both warnings had been given without response, and the commandant, a young, beardless Lieutenant, though shaking in his boots, cried out to the cannonier, "Do you see the wheel-house?" "Yes." "Send a ball into it, in God's name!" This had effect. With crushed wheel- Insurance and Real Estate. nouse, the Russian stopped perforce. A moment later two boats were seen setting out for Stockholm; one with the frighted young commandant in it from Waxand one from the disabled man-ofeach rowing with utmost speed in hope of reaching the royal presence first. The Swede arrived just enough in advance to obtain the first audience. He gasped out his story.

"Well," said the King, "it seems she wouldn't salute, and you fired?" "Where did you hit her?"

"Oh, your Majesty, be gracious!"
"Did you hit the wheel-house?" "Ye—es."
"Good! You're a major." The Russian was permitted to rebuild its wheel in Stockholm.—[Harper's Maga-

Among the happiest groups in the city were the little ones at the Protestant Orphan Asylum, who were given a Thanksgiving dinner by the lady managers of the institution, and no children in the happiest homes of the city could give more earnest demonstration. happiest homes of the city could give more earnest demonstration of fullest happiness and content than did these little homeless ones. A union service of the churches was held in the forenoon at Kingsley Chapel, which was filled by a very large audience—the vestibule even being filled. Rev. "Let it be your next greatest aim to build up character. Dr. A. J. Frost, of the First Baptist Church, delivered a sermon upon the last part of the third verse of the sixteenth chapter of Matthew: "Can ye not discern the signs of the times?" The thought outline of the discourse was that the present signs of the times contained ill and good omens, but he would only consider those which give occasion for thanksgiving. Faverable omens were to be seen in connection with the agricultural world, the political world, the condition of science and in religion. These points were developed by the speaker with much fullness and force, and at times with marked tenderness and pathos. The sermon also contained a very interesting eulogy of the late President Garfield, and, notwithstanding the sad event of his death, he regarded that the omens of general im provement in the political affairs of the nation were very encouraging.

WHARF IMPROVEMENTS.

In addition to raising the track and filling in along the city front the past season, which constitutes raising the levee, the wharves and approaches to them have also been greatly improved. From the foot of K street to the railroad bridge, the old trestle-work, upon which the former railroad tracks and wharf rested, has been filled in, or earth substituted, most of the way for a width of about fifty et, and the outer surface is to be faced with stone paving to prevent its cutting during high water. Below K street similar filling has been extended under the old wharf, and stone paving with granite blocks has taken the place of a portion of the previous plank work, where teams pass over in handling freight. This favorite paving will be extended from K to L streets. It Harney and Dolan. is stated that the company has now under consideration plans for extending the wharf between K and L streets to a line about 80 feet west of the railroad track, and which ould be about 25 feet further west over the river than at present where the steamboat ffice is. By this improvement the old hulk now used as a float from one end of the gangers are loaded and unloaded, would be done away with and a steam elevator constructed in the edge of the wharf for discharging and receiving cargoes. In connection with this change the present steamboat freight sheds between K and L streets would, it is thought, be removed, and a new one built between the railroad track and the river. The new building would be similar to the railroad freight depot, but about five feet narrower, and with the same facilities for drays to be loaded and unloaded from it as at the railroad depot. The new building would be 250 feet in length, and about one-half of it would extend over the river upon pile work. A new wharf is being constructed by the Sacramento Wood Company, in front of the old landing and platform of the San Joaquin Company, between M and N streets. The new wharf is thirty feet in width and 250 feet long, of which 180 feet will be under roof to protect freight from the weather. The wharf is placed upon sawed posts resting upon mud-sills, eight feet below the filling. Wm. H. Young is superintending the con-struction and the work will be completed in about ten days. The rebuilding of the wharf at Clarksburg, which has been in progress lately, will be completed this week.

GAS STOVE!

MUCH COMFORT, WITH ECONOMY, IS gained by heating your office or bedroom—where there is no fireplace, or even if there is—with a GAS STOVE. Our climate in winter gives us generally pleasant days, but cool mornings and evenings, somewhat damp. The use of a GAS STOVE for an hour, morning and evening, is all that is required. The expense is trifling; the trouble, care or darger none. No ashes or dust covers your furniture; no wood or coal to pack upstairs. The fire is always at hard by lighting a match, and put out by turning a cock, and the combustion of the gas and air, so perfect by our improved burners, that no disagreeable odor arises, nor is the air in the apartment vitiated. Send to the office of the CAPITAL GAS COMPANY, and order one put up.

Some six or seven years ago South Mountain, Idaho, attracted a good deal of attention in mining circles, but from some cause the district became almost entirely abandoned. It is now starting out on a new lease of life. The Silver State says of the operations there: "John Catalow, one of tain mines, and a large stockholder in the Varkuff Company, received a dispatch from Silver City last Saturday, informing him that the furnaces had started up and were running splendidly."

Elmond and Walker Boir and Theodore Riley spent the 13th inst. hunting in the tules of Butte creek. There was no wind and the boys had poor luck, getting away with only eight geese. Walker got stuck in the slickens, and his comrades were unable to pull him out. He sank in over waist deep. As a last resort one of the halters was fastened around his body under his arms and the team hitched on. The horses brought him to terra firma, although the halter slipped up over his arms in some way or other and caught him under the ears. He wants no more of that kind of fun.—[Gridley Herald.

The Feather rose and was "riled" and red right after the recent rain, but has run down to its former level and taken on a new color. The redness which had long here a characteristic of the water has encounted in the tules of Baltact Reports.

The water is now almost colorless, and free from solid matter in suspension. A bucketful of it is said to look as clear as ordinary rain water. It is reported that ten miles above Yuba City the water has become so clear that the bottom of the river can be seen in places where the depth is considerable. This change in the Feather is undoubtedly due to the cessation of hydraulic mining. The Stockton Herald says: Colonel A. W. Potter, of San Francisco, who is farming somewhat extensively on the West Side, in the vicinity of Bantas, is greatly troubled by myriads of wild geese which find green pasture in his wheat fields. He has declared war and is fitting out an expedition against them. A part of his force consists of artillery and part of infantry. He has taken a battery up from San Francisco, and yesterday he came to town for munitions of war. His principal field piece is a 300 pound cannon, in weight. He is a bold strategist, and learned the art of war with Grant. Within seven months his weight increased from 145 pounds to 170 pounds, and his strength of both body and mind had increased in proportion. His labor had been severe; he is a machinist and inventor, working ten hours every day, and doing a good deal of practical and profitable thinking at the same time. It is now a full year since he came to one meal, and the weight gained has been maintained, and his health is perfect. During the last winter, for the purpose of testing the sufficiency of one meal of pure food for the most trying labor, he worked in an iron foundry for three months, and notwithstanding the extreme and frequent changes of temperature incidental to the work, on cold mornings with the mercury below zero, and in the afternoon cold mornings with the mercury below zero, and in the afternoon at 120 degrees above, and all hands sweating like rain, he had not a "cold" for the winter, and was the only employe thus exempt. He is rarely thirsty, but sometimes, if too little fruit is taken at meal-time, he takes a small draught of water in the course of the day. This meal is taken at night, after entire recovery from fatigue, usually at about 7 o'clock. During the month of May, 1881, just passed, he gained sixty hours, or six days, working extra hours at his sometimes working right through to midnight, and taking his "breakfast" after a short rest, before retiring. No man in his employ had gained so much time. He has occasionally made a trial of bolted.
